

Stull and Lee Incorporated architecture • planning

YARMOUTH STREET VENT SHAFT BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

The Yarmouth Street Ventilation shaft was a collaborative inter-disciplinary effort combining strict engineering requirements with whimsical architectural imagery. Large vertical shafts which ventilate the Southwest Corridor subway transit tunnel have been wrapped with a brick "bow front" envelope which mimics in scale and materials the other houses on this historic street.

